WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27.

County Convention Called.

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee held in Frankfort, Ky., May 30, it was ordered that on Saturday, July 14, 1900, at 2 p. m., standard time there shall be held in each of the voting precincts of all the counties of the State at the usual voting places, a precinct convention for the purpose of appointing delegates to the county convention to be held at the Court House, Monday, July 16, at 2 p. m., which county convention shall in turn appoint delegates to a State Convention to be held in Lexington, Ky., on Thursday, July 19, 1900, for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Governor.

The basis of representation for precinct delegates shall be one for each fifty votes, and fraction over twenty-five cast for Bryan Electors in 1896. The basis of representation for county delegates shall be one delegate for each two hundred votes, and fraction over one hundred cast for the best of the Democratic electoral ticket at the Presidential election in 1896.

All persons who will be legal voters in the State next November who are devoted to the principles of the Democratic party, and desire to those principles to succeed, who by participating in the district and county conventions will feel in honor bound to support the nominee of the Democratic party for Governor, are hereby invited to participate in said meetings.

C. S. HARRIS, Chairman.
GORDON MONTGOMERY, Secretary.

Rev. Finer, who was shot at Rockville by Mr. Ware, is in a critical condition.

Hanna has got his old job. He was re-elected Chairman of the National Committee and will conduct the present campaign upon the buying plan.

A man with political aspirations and is without sticktoitiveness, is between the devil and the deep blue sea when it comes to distributing pie—"old mahogany," you know.

Here is a piece of news that the society ladies of Columbia will be glad to learn: Lady Randolph Churchill has announced that her marriage to Lieut. George Cornwallis West, of the Scots Guard, will take place in July.

Thirty-five passengers and trainmen were dashed to death last Saturday night in a wreck on the Macon branch of the Southern railway, near McDonough, Ga. The train ran into a wreck, and of all those on board none escaped death save those in the sleeping car. Not a trainman escaped. The wreckage caught fire and many of the unfortunate were burned to death.

Congressman Boring is in the middle of a bad fix over the disposition of the London postoffice. It is said that the Congressman promised the place to Mr. A. R. Dyche, editor of the Mountain Echo. But Mr. Boring's daughter is undecided what he will do. It occurs to us that under the circumstances that Dyche ought to settle the matter by getting out the way.

The Republican National Convention held in Philadelphia last week was a harmonious gathering of distinguished men from every State. It is claimed by Republicans, and admitted by Democrats, that they have named the strongest ticket within their power. From a Republican standpoint, doubtless, the action of this convention is highly gratifying; that they feel confident of victory in November; but the nomination of McKinley and Roosevelt did not produce consternation in Democratic circles or even create a ripple of doubt as to the result next fall. The admission that the Republicans have made a strong and popular ticket, does not indicate that they can ride over the will of the great mass of American people. The fight is yet to be made, and it is but fair to our common political adversaries to admit the personal popularity of their ticket and it is equally fair and an imperative duty, as we see it, for Democrats to understand the strength of their enemy. While Mr. McKinley stands for all that the Republican party demands, while he has listened to and obeyed the edicts of the Republican headlight, and while the politicians of his party in their convention seem to have harmonized all differences, yet all this does not preclude defeat. The tail of their ticket—the Rough Rider, personally a popular favorite in the Republican party. His administration in New York has been a popular one, and while Mr. Roosevelt may be the idol of many Republicans, yet this does not insure success to their hopes and ambition. The Democrats will meet July 14th, and then there will be another popular ticket named. It will not be popular by reason of having bowed the knee to trusts and combines, cutting the throats of legitimate competition; it will not derive its popularity by encouraging its financial system by having bowed to the golden calf; it will lay no claim to that popularity, derived by means of an imperial policy—the conquering and subjugation of millions of people in the Philippines, six thousand miles from our nearest shore, when they were engaged in a dreadful conflict to overthrow Spanish oppression and establish a government for themselves, and no word of popularity will be claimed by reason of favoring partisan favoritism under the designation of the civil service laws. To the contrary the popularity of the ticket to be named in Kansas City will be a union of personal and political—the men and the principles for which they contend. There has never arisen in the political world, a more popular man than W. J. Bryan—a man of learning, a man of powerful mind whose fidelity to the great mass of American people is as thoroughly established as was that of Washington, Jackson and Jefferson. The popularity of the Kansas City nominees and the great declaration of principles that will be embodied into its platform, will electrify the Democratic party and all outside reform sources, and make it one of the most fearful tickets that the party of Mark Hanna ever met. To know that the Republicans have named their strongest men inspires an extraordinary effort on the part of Democrats, and such an effort will place the control of this government into the hands of Democrats. The Republicans can not hope for success on the personality of their ticket; they must meet their record and that record will defeat them in the end. "No question has been settled until it is settled right." The great mass of American people believe in self government; they believe that other people should control their own affairs and shape their own destinies so long as they do not conflict with the rights of our people or infringe upon our neighbors; they believe in expanding our trade by means of legitimate and peaceful actions, and not by the power of the sword. They believe in the Monroe doctrine that has been our National policy through many troubles of the past, and it is only a small part of our people who endorse an alliance with England, but there are millions who cling to the conviction that had Wm. McKinley lived in colonial times, he had been Mayor of Boston, there would have been more tea in the world, that the bloody conflict that followed would have been averted and the recognition of King George maintained. The fact is, judging from McKinley's action toward England, the Republican party should have denounced the Boers for trying to maintain their Republic. Yes, they have named a strong ticket, so to speak, but not strong enough to win by reason of the avowed purpose of continuing the same policies.

The Republican platform favors such legislation as will prevent the formation of monopolies and trusts, and yet that party has laid full away in all branches of the Government for the last three years and encouraged them from the beginning. In this declaration no man can be expected to believe that the party managers are sincere. It also declares that the Republican party is engaged in warfare to put down armed insurrection in the Philippines and that it will bestow the blessings of civil liberty upon all the rescued people. This seems astounding that they would attempt to ask the people of this country to accept such a statement in the face of this record to subjugate Philippines and place the people under the control and dictations of this government. This same platform speaks of Republican pride in the gold standard and their gratification in increasing the National revenue, but no expression as to how they obtained the revenue is mentioned.

There was a sensational shooting at Hopkinsville last Tuesday. Rev. W. K. Finer, one of the leading ministers of the Methodist Church, was shot by Mr. J. D. Ware, a prominent tobacco man. Mr. Finer had called upon Mr. Ware's wife and the two were in the parlor conversing when the husband appeared and asked: "What in the hell are you doing here?" There was a female and Mr. Finer was shot in the head, receiving a slight wound. The minister claims that he was not guilty of any improper conduct; that he had called upon Mrs. Ware to talk over some Church matters, and that Mr. Ware was certainly drinking. Mr. Ware denies the minister's statement, and says that the proof justifying his course is good and sufficient. Both sides have made preparations for a strong legal fight. Mr. Finer is known here. Several years ago he preached at the Methodist church in Columbia, and the church at Clear Spring, this county, was dedicated by him.

Judge J. R. Sampson, a former citizen of Columbia, but now a resident of Middleburg, Bell county, is a Democratic candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, subject to the action of his party. The district is now represented by Judge Hazelrigg, who declines to stand for re-election. Judge Sampson is a gentleman of high character, a Democrat in whom there is no guile, and a profound and industrious lawyer, and we would be glad to hear of his election to the high and honorable position.

The Republican party is a kind of double-triggered political organization with a large "You tickle me and I'll tickle you," tablet on one trigger and federal pie on the other, and many a man has thus been caught, don't you know.

BURKSVILLE.

Brud Walker and family, of Nell, visited Mrs. Katherine Pulliam, Clond's Landing, a few days ago. Mrs. Pulliam has been seriously ill for several months but is improving.

Ed and Hugh Richardson and Hance Goff have bought "Mr. Graves" farm in Salt Lick Bend for $200. Mr. Graves intends buying a farm in Iowa.

T. S. Scott and L. L. Cary spent Sunday at Celina.

Mrs. J. Hill, of Columbia, and Tom McMillin, of Texas, are visiting Robert McCaskey in Salt Lick Bend.

Miss Georgia McMillan, daughter of Prof. James P. McMillan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., formerly of this place, is visiting here.

Dr. W. C. Keen has moved back to his country house three miles from town.

There were nine applicants for teachers' certificates before the Board of Examiners last Friday and Saturday.

T. S. Scott has bought the Dunn property in the upper part of town.

H. M. Cheek and wife, Nashville, are visiting relatives here.

Zib Smith, Beck's Store, and Miss Cordie Hurt, of Waterview, were married in Tennessee last week.

Mrs. Ed. Holland, of Beck's Store, is dangerously ill.

REPUBLICAN VIEWS BRIEFLY SET FORTH.

Strong Gold Standard Plank—No Fiscal Policy in the Philippines—

Boer Question, Etc.

The Republican platform declares that the prosperity of the country depends upon the victory of the Republican party.

The currency plank is a straight-out declaration for the gold standard, with an added clause denouncing the project of free silver coinage except by international agreement.

The protective tariff is praised as one of the twin pillars of prosperity, but the usefulness of reciprocity under certain conditions is recognized. Trusts are to be condemned when they restrict trade or affect prices, but the right of capital to combine is affirmed. Imperialism is briefly touched. The idea is that expansion was forced on the nation. The future of our new possessions is not clearly outlined. Home rule is to be instituted, in some degree, where possible.

A reduction of war taxes is promised, and declarations are made favoring an interoceanic canal. The civil service regulations are to be extended to the colonies.

The Boer-British war is noticed with an explanation of our non interference and a hope that the outcome will be honorable to both sides.

Our participation in the Chinese open-door movement is approved as a matter of business. Another clause calls for the protection of American citizens and their rights.

A new executive department is favored. Under it will be the consular system. More strict immigration laws and other labor reforms are demanded, as well as legislation to restore our merchant marine.

The early admission of Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona to statehood is advocated.

PURDY.

Mr. E. W. Burton has been confined to his bed for several days.

Mr. James Shepherd and daughter were visiting Mr. J. M. Burton and family last Sunday.

Mr. J. T. Bryant and family were visiting Mrs. Lisa Bryant last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Della Harmon and Annie Oundiff were visiting Mr. Beard last Saturday night.

Prof. Allen will sing at the Purdy church for the next ten Sunday's.

Last fall I sprained my left hip while handling some heavy boxes. The doctor I called on said at first it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I tried it and one-half of a 50 cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recommend it to all my friends.—F. A. Bantock, Erie, Pa. It is for sale by M. Cravens.

Breeding Hogs.

In mating for your next crop of pigs think more of what the pigs ought to look like than how the pig-fence will read. We have had enough and to spare of the pedigree race.

Secure your sows are thriving or "doing well" when you breed them. They should be gaining and putting on flesh at breeding time is considered of prime importance by many of the most successful breeders.

No well-regulated hog farm is complete without breeding cranes. To be sure they are to be found on nearly all the best breeding farms, but many more can be used to splendid advantage. Any one with a spark of aptitude for tools can make one. It is not necessary to get a "patent" one, although some of these have some most excellent features.

Charles H. Marks, while acting in the capacity of nurse at the Second Division Hospital of the Fifth Army Corps at Santiago de Cuba, used a few bottles of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea and found it to work like a charm. For sale by M. Cravens.

Gov. Beekham

This celebrated and thoroughbred thoroughbred will make the present season on my farm and will be permitted to serve cows for $1.00 cash or $1.50 on time. Gov. Beekham is two years old and weighs 1100 pounds. I think he is the best Bull of his age in Kentucky.

Poultry Hints.

Hens are generally unsuccessful in hatching chickens in midsummer. This is largely due to their allowing their eggs to get too cool while off feeding.

There is less danger of Vermin with which raised in the brooder than those kept with the hen, but it requires constant vigilance with the brooder chicks to keep them entirely clean.

The introduction of new blood into flocks of pure bred fowls is quite as important as the introduction of pure bred fowls on farms where only the mongrel breeds have predominated. The Leghorns, Dominique and Cornish game are all hardy fowls. They begin to feather at two weeks old and are soon comparatively safe. The Asiatic breeds are frequently half grown before they are in full feather.

The hen is still the farmer's best friend. She comes to his rescue in midwinter, in the spring, time and in summer with the egg, the most marketable product of the farm, and keeps up a supply of groceries for the good housewife.

The poultry business has started many good business men on the road to success. The boy on the farm that can raise a few pennies can go into poultry raising in a way that he can make some money out of it. Look out for the boy that likes to work with the poultry and make it pay. He will make a business man some day, if he has a chance—National Stockman and Farmer.

White Man Turned Yellow.

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. O. Hogarty of Lexington Ky, when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was Yellow jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try Electric Bitters, the wonderful Stomach and Liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. Only 50c. Sold by T. E. Paull, druggist.

Children have long memories and are not easily deceived the second time. Thus the Post-Dispatch reports the disfigurement of a St. Louis mother who took her five-year-old son to the photographer's, being particularly anxious to have some "snapshots." The child's idea of the affair, however, seemed not to harmonize with that of his mother; for when the man with the camera began to adjust the lens and direct it toward little Edward, that young person set to work to bowl. In vain did his mother do her best to quiet him. Edward did not want his picture taken. "Why not," she said soothingly, "the gentleman won't hurt you; just smile and keep still a moment, and it will all be over before you know it." "Yes, I know it, mama," whimpered Edward, "but I'm scared, and I'm crying, and I'm running down my cheeks, and that's what you told me to do."

Now if any of your family are suffering with Chills and fever, achings of bones, Jaundice, Biliousness, or other symptoms of Malarial Poison, we earnestly solicit you to try a 50 cent bottle of Morley's Tasteless Chill Remedy, for it is used according to directions we know it will cure. No Cure, No Pay. Sold by W. M. Bell, Jopka.

The high officials of the present administration ever knew anything about the Monroe doctrine they have not been so muddy on the subject that it is all a dream to them. They have been trying to teach the doctrine in the Orient and neglecting the uneducated people at home.

T. E. PAULL.

Letter to Mr. Bryan.

John Brisbane Walker has written a letter upon the issues of the campaign to Wm. J. Bryan. The letter is dated at Mr. Walker's home at Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y., and is as follows:

"The question which will be uppermost in my mind is a question of good or bad legislation, but the finality shall the republic give place to a form of government, which will be the equivalent of a monarchy or worse? Shall Democratic forms of government be replaced by the rule of the few unscrupulous men who have no regard for the general welfare or life of Republican institutions?"

"With the Democratic party alone the hope of reform remains. The man who by his error of judgment makes the success of that party impossible may be responsible for the downfall of the republic."

CHRISTIAN UPON US.

"The Democratic party represents all that there is in concrete form of opposition to the dangerous state of affairs which now threatens; upon it depends the preservation of Republican institutions. To succeed it must have the vote of the great majority of honest men."

"In such a crisis the worst enemy of the Democratic party and of the country is that man who would narrow the platform and creed under which voters must act upon lines which may exclude those who are sincerely anxious for the public welfare. To repeat, the success of the Democratic party is necessary for the preservation of government by the people. There are many issues for which the Democratic party stands, but there is only one issue upon which the voters are certain to be united. Imperialism, trust, rule, militarism, all mean but one thing, all represent but one issue, and upon this issue every Lincoln Republican and every Jefferson Democrat may unite. The finance issue, while of immediate importance, must have no place in this campaign; its introduction will endanger more vital interests. No man has a better right to say this than I, who 25 years ago made it a part of my contract in taking charge of the Washington Daily Chronicle that I should be allowed to advocate the resumption of silver, and in the Buffalo Convention of 1896 wrote and secured the adoption of the clause ludoring the Chicago platform."

BELIEVER IN HUMAN.

"I know what men are saying and thinking. With a large personal acquaintance and correspondence scattered all over the country, I am satisfied that those Democrats who were most earnest in urging the adoption of the Chicago platform in 1896, and are most anxious for the success of the Democratic institutions to-day, look at this matter in the light which I have here indicated. You have reason to know my belief in your great personal fitness to represent the interests of the people in the next campaign. I trust your sincerity, your imperviousness alike to fear, to flattery, to purchase. I trust to your wisdom to conduct the affairs of the nation. But your leadership will be dearly purchased if, in order to secure it, we must adopt a platform which, however just in the execution, is unwise and unnecessary at this time, and which must result in driving away those voters which are necessary to perpetuate Republican institutions."

A CARD OF THANKS.

I wish to say that I feel under lasting obligations for what Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has done for our family. We have used it in so many cases of cough, lung troubles and whooping cough, and it has always given the most perfect satisfaction, we feel greatly indebted to the manufacturers of this remedy and wish them to please accept our hearty thanks.—Respectfully, Mrs. S. Dorr, Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by M. Craven.

Republican extravagance could not be entirely curbed, even in a presidential year. The appropriations made the Republican Congress at the session just ended aggregate $700,000,000.

Democrats ask nothing more of the people than that the Republican party be judged by the record made by the Republican majority in both branches, at the session of congress just ended.

Imaginary Ills.

It is probably within bounds to say that large proportion, if not fully one half, of the troubles which afflict mankind are wholly imaginary, or at least greatly exaggerated. A considerable part of every physician's practice consists in the treatment of minor ailments and of diseases which exist only in his patients' imagination.

If there were all, and the only result of too much introspection and notice of supposed symptoms were to increase the physician's income, there would not be so much said against it. But, serious and imaginary diseases cause a great deal of suffering—as much, if not more, than the real troubles of which they are the counterfeit.

There are few more wretched objects than the confirmed hypochondriac, whose days and nights are spent in counting his pulse, looking at his tongue, noticing every flutter in his chest or little shooting pain in his head, and reading medical books.

Such a man is perhaps more to be pitied than the victim of fatal disease, for while he may live longer his life is so barren of happiness as to be scarcely worth the having.

There is almost no disease which one who makes a consistent study of every little unusual sensation cannot immediately detect. The hypochondriac is himself to the hilt, and he is constantly stimulated. It is easy to count the pulse and to imagine queer sensations in the chest, and the rhythm of the heart beats changes under such slight provocations, especially if there is a little indigestion, that nothing is simpler than to imagine oneself the subject of some serious disease of this organ.

The habit is thus formed of watching one's symptoms, and one formed it is most difficult to overcome. The best protection against the acquiring of such a habit is education in childhood. Parents should never permit their children to take notice of every little ache or pain with which a child runs to its mother. A sharp stitch in the side does not always mean pneumonia, nor a stomach ache appendicitis, and children should be taught to disregard little discomforts. If a child is given a very light supper and put to bed when it complains it will soon learn not to exaggerate small ills.

Real sickness usually makes its presence known by unmistakable signs, and there is slight danger that a manly disregard of minor ailments and a refusal to be frightened by them will lead to the neglect of any really serious trouble.—Youth's Companion.

Worth Knowing.

Those who have good brood mares in foal should remember that they will do better and bring better colts if they are given a little exercise each day. They can do most of the light farm work even up to the time of dropping the foal, and again by the time the colt is a week old. But this does not mean that they should be starved drawing heavy loads, nor that they must be worked into a perspiration in a hot day, a warm day in the spring being worse than a hot day in July. Long drives are bad for them, but not as bad as a fast mile. Slipping on ice or plunging through snowdrifts may cause abortion. Keep them in good, thrifty condition, but do not make them over-fat, and do not give them heating food like corn or corn meal. Good clover or early cut fine hay and a mixture of bran and oats makes the best feed for them until they can get to grass, as it keeps the bowels open, and a few roots occasionally are good. Nor do we know of any objections to a daily feed of snailage if it is at hand, instead of the roots. If our Eastern farmers realized that the bringing of a colt does not mean the loss of the use of the mare for several months in a year, but only a careful use of her, and that such use is better for her than idleness, we think they would raise more colts than they do. Many of them we know have mares that would make good brood mares and are sent out to far in most sections to find a good stallion. A good colt is likely to command a good price for the next five years, and a farmer who has a good mare could raise one and use that it had cost him anything when 3 years old, excepting the stallion fee.

If the people wish to keep on paying war taxes and to see the construction of the Nicaragua canal indefinitely postponed they will keep the Republicans in control of congress and the federal government.

L. Hardesty & Son, Mt. Eden, Ky., say: "We consider Morley's Tasteless Chill Syrup the best we ever sold. We sold 40 bottles of it in this month and not a failure in the lot. In fact, when our doctors find a case hard to cure, they send us for Morley's Tasteless Chill Syrup and it never fails to cure." Sold by W. M. Bell, Jopka, Ky.

The Cream.

Train the horse into good habits with best calf.

Lack of color generally shines in poor butter.

Making butter-milk flavored butter may be stopped by washing the butter-milk out.

The smaller the globules can be made in bringing the butter the easier it will be to free from buttermilk.

The way to secure the best quality of butter is to save the way by providing the best facilities.

About two thirds of what a cow consumes goes to her bodily support, the balance to milk production.

One advantage in grinding the food is that to some extent the animal organism is relieved of the labor of performing the work of digestion.

Motherhood is the largest development the object sought in the profitable cow.

Even for milk production a hearty, thrifty condition is quite as important as it is for the production of fat. A cow to be a good milk must be a good feeder.

If pumpkins are fed to the milk cows the seed should be taken out, so that the cows can easily eat them, so that the cows can easily eat them.

While some breeds of cows are better adapted to the dairy than others, first-class butter has been made from the milk of nearly every known breed.

Sugar and buttermilk can be dissolved out of butter, but can never be recovered out beyond a certain point.

The lesson to learn is to feed the cow all that she will consume readily of a good variety of food that is easily digested and to give her pure water, air and good atention.

Keep the milk as sweet and fluid as possible so that the fat globules (or cream) as they ascend to the surface will be obstructed as little as possible. When young heifers calve and it becomes necessary to train them to milk use the utmost gentleness. The cow will appreciate the kindness. It will also be a material help if a little feed is given at milking time. It will occupy her attention and she will be less likely to become excited.

An advantage with the dairy cow that gives a good flow of milk during the winter is that she will bring in more when it is much needed and when the average farmer has very little opportunity of making money, and in this way she may be made a valuable acquisition to the farm.—American Grange Bulletin.
